

School district actions

Grad requirements hiked

The Chaffey Joint Union High School District Board of Trustees has increased graduation requirements starting with students who enter ninth grade in September.

Increasing the standard school day to six periods was one of the strongest campaign issues in the March school board elections. The six-period day was cut to five periods during budget cutbacks two years ago.

Under the new standards incoming freshmen will have to earn 220 units to graduate compared to the 210 units presently required.

As a result students are expected to take six classes a semester in their freshman and sophomore years. They also will have to take an additional social science class — for a total of three years of required social science classes.

The increased graduation requirements will require an additional 16 teachers, spread throughout the district's five high schools and two alternative schools. The additional staff will cost a total of $220,000.

The increased requirements were recommended by the district curriculum committee and supported by Superintendent Mike Dirksen.

Board member Ray Sarrio had proposed even stricter graduation requirements, including a total of 230 units with more required courses to provide a "broad" education. Sarrio's proposal received the support of board member Charles Uhalley but was defeated 3-2.

Sarrio's plan would have required students to take six classes each semester and would have limited elective courses to 45 units (nine classes).

Under the present system students can take more than half of their graduation credits — 110 or 210 — in elective courses.

The result of extensive electives is that some students receive a narrow education based on the classes they can do well at or the classes their friends are taking, according to Sarrio.

Sarrio's proposal also would have changed the system which allows students to take the majority of their classes in their first three years of high school.

Such students can complete their graduation requirements by taking only one or two courses a semester during their senior year, a practice which can cause social problems, according to Sarrio.

Some students use the short senior day to hold down part time jobs — often to finance college costs, commented John Kunysz, student representative to the board of trustees.

Upland District

Upland School District Board of Trustees is considering a preliminary budget of $8.85 million for the 1977-78 school year.

Superintendent George Renworth said the budget is an increase of $90,000 over the present budget of $7,940,000. The larger budget reflects an increase of some 125 students as well as increased salaries and continued inflation.

Management and confidential salaries have not yet been set, but teachers and classified staff are in the middle of a two-year contract which provided a 6.1 per cent raise for the 1976-77 school year. A 5 per cent raise is included for the 1977-78 school year.

Renworth noted that some district costs have increased amazingly due to inflation. Employee insurance is up some 39 per cent over last year with liability insurance up 40 per cent.

The district board is expected to consider the tentative budget at the June 14 meeting. School budgets statewide are adopted in early August.

School district boundaries have been changed for some 40 junior high school students who will attend Upland Junior High School rather than Pioneer Junior High School.

The students live in an area bounded by Foothill Boulevard and 16th Street west of Mountain Avenue. They are in the Montclair High School attendance area.

The district has dropped a plan to provide a federally funded hot lunch program for six weeks this summer.

The district had planned to join with the city of Upland to provide the program for children and teenagers from disadvantaged areas.

The program was dropped when Upland city staff members recommended the city not participate in the program because of unknown costs.

As the ordering agency for the food, Upland would have borne the cost of excess food. Attendance at the lunch program would have varied from day to day.

The district cannot participate in the program without the partnership of the city. The program had been scheduled for Upland Elementary School and Foothill Knolls School cafeterias.

District trustees approved a renovation study for Upland Junior Elementary School. The study, costing $2,700, would allow the district to apply for federal funds for renovation of older school buildings. The project is expected to cost at least $750,000.

Renovation, which would not start for at least 18 months, would include exterior work; electrical, heating, lighting and air conditioning; as well as carpeting to reduce noise.

Dixie Snap organizing bike-a-thon

Cystic fibrosis changes life of local family

By Lynne Locke

Dixie and Larry Snapp knew their life would change when they discovered Dixie was pregnant in her mid-30s, but they didn't know how great the change would be.

The two had established their lives — jobs and family of three children — and certainly didn't intend to have more children and never thought they would be organizing a Breath of Spring Bike-a-thon in Upland.

Jennifer Snapp — born just one year ago — was one of life's unplanned surprises for the Snapps, who welcomed her with pleasure.

She was like a new toy to sisters Ginger, 18, Jeri, 11 and brother Larry, 9, Mrs. Snapp said.

But then at 6 weeks old Jennifer was critically ill with pneumonia, an early sign of cystic fibrosis, — and life for the Snapp family changed.

"I'd heard of cystic fibrosis, but I didn't know what it was. The first time we brought her home from the hospital (after a bout with pneumonia), I was still scared," Mrs. Snapp remembered.

Now, a year and three hospital stays later, she understands what cystic fibrosis means for her baby and for her family.

— Cystic fibrosis means Jennifer can't digest food without the addition of special enzymes.

— Cystic fibrosis means the mucus in Jennifer's body is so thick that it can form in pockets and cause possibly fatal pneumonia.

— Cystic fibrosis means daily therapy sessions — some of which Jennifer likes and some she fights.

— Cystic fibrosis means stays in the hospital for intravenous feedings when Jennifer is too ill to eat.

— Cystic fibrosis means Jennifer has a life expectancy of only 18 years — with good luck she may live longer, with bad luck, not so long.

— Cystic fibrosis means Jennifer's sisters and brother may be carriers, who will one day have a cystic fibrosis child of their own.

Living and coping with Jennifer's condition "would have been very hard if we hadn't had God on our side," Mrs. Snapp said, noting that only her faith gives her hope "when everything is black."

"We just think positively every day that she's going to be better," she said. But Mrs. Snapp is doing more than just thinking positive thoughts.

She is organizing a Breath of Spring Bike-a-thon 9 a.m.-3 p.m. Saturday, June 11 to raise funds for research to aid the thousands of children nationwide who suffer from cystic fibrosis and the many more who are carriers.

Mrs. Snapp has set a goal of 100 riders earning a total of $1,000 by finding sponsors for every mile they ride on the short course starting at Magnolia Park, Upland and making a two-mile circuit.

She hopes local residents — from children to adults — will join in the bike-a-thon. And she hopes families who have experience with cystic fibrosis will join together to help make the local bike-a-thon a yearly event.

The Snapps would never have known they were cystic fibrosis carriers — and that their children may be — without the birth of their fourth child.

Cystic fibrosis is an inherited, genetic disease, passed haphazardly from parents to children. It doesn't show up until a baby — like Jennifer — is born with a recessive gene from her mother and one from her father.

One real tragedy of the disease is that there is no test for carriers. The other Snapp children — like thousands of people nationwide — may be carriers or may not.

Mrs. Snapp said one in every 20 people is an unknown carrier, passing the trait on to future generations unknowingly.

The symptoms of cystic fibrosis are more obvious, but many can be overlooked until an alert doctor or parent puts all of the clues together.

Children with cystic fibrosis do not gain weight after birth because they cannot digest food. Jennifer weighed eight pounds at birth and has yet to double that birth weight although a normal one-year-old would weigh some 20 pounds.

Cystic fibrosis children are often hungry, have distended stomachs, and large bowel movements — all related to the lack of digestion.

Cystic fibrosis children have colds, coughs, and pneumonia caused by the thick mucus in their bodies. In fact, the actual cause of death for a cystic fibrosis child is usually pneumonia.

Doctors who suspect cystic fibrosis perform a salt chloride test. The presence of a high salt content provides the official diagnosis.

Then comes the daily therapy: Clap therapy, patting the body, to loosen the mucus so the child can swallow it down or cough it up. Antibiotic therapy, taken by injection or a mist sprayed through a face mask, to control the pneumonia.

Eventually Jennifer will go to a normal school and participate in normal activities. But the clap therapy and antibiotics will probably continue for the rest of her life until research discovers a cure for cystic fibrosis.

Local residents who would like to assist with the bike-a-thon as riders, sponsors or coordinators, can call Mrs. Snapp, 985-8808.

Instructions and sponsor sheets are available at Alta Loma Junior High School, and Bud's Bike Shop, Alta Loma; as well as Roy's Bicycle Shop and Calto Bicycle Shop, Upland.

Rent assistance

For the first time, low income senior citizen renters will qualify for state refunds.

Claims for rent assistance can be filed until August 31. Donald Whitney, director of the program for the state Franchise Tax Board, predicts 200,000 elderly renters will get refunds this year and that the average refund will be $100.

"Seniors who claimed the standard $37 renter's credit by filing a personal income tax Form 540 may also be eligible for rent assistance," Whitney said. "However," he said, "persons who live in tax-exempt housing do not qualify."

GIVE YOUR APPLIANCES THE AFTERNOON OFF.

Most of the electricity we generate is needed by factories, farms and offices—so people can make a living. The greatest demand for this electricity is during the day. You need electricity to run appliances in your home, too. And the greatest demand for this electricity is also during the day.

Here's the problem: Because of the growing demand for electricity during the day, we'll have to build more power plants. And building power plants today is more expensive. That drives up the cost of electricity to everybody.

Now there's something we all can do to help: Spread the use of electricity more evenly around the clock. Edison is working with large industrial customers to help them find ways to shift some of their electric use to the evening hours. But most people prefer to work during the day, so there's only so much industry can do without drastic rescheduling of work shifts.

It's afternoon use of electricity that's the biggest problem. So you can help by doing some of your daily routine at night or in the morning. Perhaps you can wash and dry your clothes at night. Use your dishwasher at night. Iron in the evening. Bake in the morning.

It means changing your routine a bit. But if we do use electricity wisely, it will help to hold down the cost in the future.

Citizens ask to decide in salary controversy

By PETER WONG

Angry citizens, though fewer in number than last year, told the county board of supervisors Tuesday it ought to let voters decide whether supervisors' salaries should be increased.

For the most part, however, the supervisors didn't react to the suggestion and didn't act on whether they should raise their pay by at least 8 per cent, from the present $22,692 to $24,844, as recommended by a grand jury committee.

But apparently offended by a remark an Ontario resident made about him during the debate, Supervisor Joseph Kamansky of Upland reacted angrily, saying, "You make me sick to my stomach."

During a public hearing on the grand jury committee's recommendations late Tuesday afternoon, opponents — most of whom were involved in successful efforts last year to force supervisors to abandon a 40 per cent pay increase they voted themselves — made the following points:

— That the grand jury, whose members are nominated by the county's superior court judges and selected by lottery, don't really represent citizens.

— That the grand jury committee which has recommended the pay raise made no attempt to determine public opinion, as reflected in some 24,000 signatures obtained last year in an effort to force a referendum on the supervisors' 40 per cent increase.

— That the five supervisors aren't as qualified as the grand jury committee says they should be to hold office and that many others of equal or better caliber are willing to run for supervisor at its present salary.

"The actual salary must be set by a vote of the people, who pay it and who can judge the supervisors' performance and whether it (a raise) is merited," Maxine Kraft, a San Bernardino resident, said.

Referring to the 30 applicants last fall for the seat vacated by Supervisor Daniel D. Mikesell of Ontario, who resigned because of ill health and under threat of recall triggered by the 40 per cent pay increase, Mrs. Kraft said, "The salary was attractive enough to them."

(Kamansky was eventually appointed to Mikesell's vacant seat.)

J. Richard Gerwig, who before his election to the San Bernardino City Council this year had led a citizens' group against last year's pay increase for supervisors, said he didn't object to a cost-of-living increase.

"But I'm extremely upset ... that you made no effort to go look at those 24,000 signatures ... These people spoke loud and clearly," Gerwig said, turning to George H. Armacost, chairman of the grand jury committee which has recommended the pay increase.

Several citizens criticized the comparison Armacost, a former University of Redlands president, drew last week between the supervisors and the management of a corporation whose sales total $250 million — the size of the current county budget.

Supervisor James L. Mayfield of Apple Valley said afterward that he and other supervisors had been offered higher salaries on the outside.

"If you gentlemen have been offered more elsewhere and feel you must have more money and live a higher lifestyle, fine. I would say, 'Resign. Take your fabulous offers.' There are many high-caliber people waiting in the wings that will take your place," Mrs. Kraft said.

Peter Faust, an Ontario resident, labeled Armacost's comparison "absurd."

But Faust, in criticizing the supervisors as unqualified to hold office by standards outlined in the grand jury committee's report — standards which Chairman Robert O. Townsend of Chino called "subjective opinion" — angered Kamansky.

Faust, who also applied for Mikesell's vacant seat, described Kamansky as "successful in business — running a gas station before joining his wife's real estate business and becoming a 'do-gooder.'"

"Being a 'do-gooder' was the first on his own list of qualifications stated in running for this post," Faust said.

"Your dubbing me with the fact I called myself a 'do-gooder' is a bald-faced lie," Kamansky replied sharply. Kamansky said a newspaper had used the term "in one of their little cliches."

"After 35 years of blood, sweat and tears — for youth, for schools, for charity, for everybody in my community — you make me sick to my stomach and you have no right to talk that way to me," Kamansky told Faust angrily.

Armacost, who spoke later, said he didn't challenge the right of the voters to set supervisors' salaries, if state law will permit it.

"We have simply made our comparison in relationship to the kinds of qualifications we think are necessary of people to discharge the function of management of a $250 million budget," he said.

San Bernardino-Riverside counties

Local blood bank accredited

The American Association of Blood Banks (AABB) announces that the Blood Bank of San Bernardino — Riverside Counties has been accredited by the Association for another two-year period.

This certifies that the level of medical - technical and administrative performance within the blood bank meets or exceeds the standards established by the AABB.

Richard H. Walker, M.D., president of the AABB, congratulated the governing board and staff and added, "This recognition by the AABB is assurance of your continued interest in providing the highest quality medical care to the donors and patients you serve."

This facility is one of more than 2,000 blood banks and hospital transfusion services in the United States which have been accredited through this program.

The purpose of AABB's voluntary inspection and accreditation program includes elevating the standards of practice within the blood bank which assures superior services to blood donors and increased safety in human blood transfusion to patients. Accreditation is based on the results obtained from a comprehensive physical inspection by one of the AABB's trained inspectors.

Walker emphasized that "the patient who receives a blood transfusion provided by a facility accredited by the American Association of Blood Banks can have full confidence that the facility has voluntarily met high standards of procedures and is continually striving to offer the best services possible.

The American Association of Blood Banks is the nation's largest organization comprised of community and hospital blood banks and transfusion services. Its membership includes physicians, nurses, medical technologists and others actively engaged in providing whole blood and blood components.

The AABB has operated a national clearinghouse program since 1953. This program provides a mechanism for donors to replace blood voluntarily anywhere in the country and to coordinate blood exchanges between banks without cost to the donors or patients. This assures better utilization of all available blood supplies.

School for delinquents to open in Ontario

A new school which opens in Ontario next month is envisioned as a superior alternative to locking up youths with severe delinquency problems.

Its students will be young people who have been excluded from all Chaffey Joint Union High School District campuses including continuation and alternative schools.

San Bernardino County Probation Department plans to operate the 10-student day education center in a house near Chaffey High School starting June 16.

The center is said by department employees to be the type of alternative envisioned by a state law which bars confinement of truant, runaway or incorrigible youths against their will.

That law, effective in January, assumes such youths are not engaging in behavior comparable to adult crimes and that confinement might cause them to see themselves as criminals.

P. Joseph Lenz, the probation department's West End division director, said students who attend the school will be chosen by a panel of probation department and school employees.

Operating from 8 a.m. to noon each day, the school will be staffed by a teacher, an instructional aide and a probation officer.

Instead of a normal probation caseload of 60 to 70 individuals, the probation officer will have a caseload made up of only the 10 students attending the school.

He will counsel those students and, if one doesn't show up for school, he will have the time to go out and find out why, said Gary Paytas, supervising probation officer.

Commuter Computer gets 1977 Clean Air Award

The 1977 Clean Air Award has been presented to Commuter Computer by the Lung Association of San Bernardino, Inyo and Mono Counties.

"We chose Commuter Computer because of their successful efforts in reducing the use of private automobile through their carpool and vanpool program," said Lung Association Executive Director, Lionel Hudson in making the presentation to Andrea Deer, Manager of the San Bernardino branch office of Commuter Computer.

"The private car is well known as the main cause of air pollution in Southern California," said Hudson. "Through Commuter Computer's efforts, thousands of cars have been removed from the roads in this Basin, reducing auto-related air pollutants by two thousand tons," Hudson added.

The award was made at ceremonies celebrating the opening of Commuter Computer's new offices at 560 N. Arrowhead Ave., San Bernardino. Commuter Computer, a non-profit organization, works with individuals and industry to provide free carpool matching services to commuters in five counties.

This year, a new pilot owner-operated Vanpool program has been added for commuters living in San Bernardino and Riverside counties. The first route has been established between Hesperia and San Bernardino.

Anyone who wishes to receive carpool or vanpool information can call the Commuter Computer office at (714) 825-RIDE.

Health News...

Asthma Is A Killer Asthma Can Be Killed

By Dr. W. P. Helzer, D.C.

If you have ever seen anyone desperately fighting for breath through a terrorizing attack of asthma you know the condition is cause for real concern.

How serious is asthma?

Few people realize that asthma, as a killer, outranks leukemia, polio and congenital and rheumatic heart disease.

Asthma is not to be tolerated or trifled with. And yet people will go years without effective treatment for themselves, or worse yet, for their children.

It's as if they build up an immunity to effective care as they become more and more dependent on bronchial dilators and other "wheezing medicines."

It's very frustrating to meet someone who takes asthma for granted.

On the other hand, some of my most rewarding experiences in chiropractic have come in the treatment of an asthmatic, gasping for breath during an attack.

In almost all cases of asthma, chiropractors find that there is a slight dislocation of vertebrae in the shoulder area. This is the exit-point of nerves leading to the bronchial tubes.

In many cases, gently nudging the dislocated vertebrae back toward their normal position has given immediate relief from severe asthma attacks.

Asthma is not simply an allergy. Attacks can be triggered by hypersensitivity to normally harmless things like pollen, foods or dust, but not always.

Besides, people in good health do not have an allergic or asthmatic reaction to pollen or dust. And if your body is functioning properly you won't have allergies.

What actually happens in an asthma attack is a contraction of the muscular bands in the walls of the bronchial tubes, cutting down on the supply of air to the lungs. Not enough air means not enough oxygen.

That's why the asthmatic sufferer forgets everything except his frantic struggle to breathe. His mind and body are signalling desperately for the oxygen they must have to survive.

Should you wait until you have an attack before you see a chiropractor?

Should you wait until your child falls in the pool before you teach him how to swim?

It's nonsense to put off effective treatment for asthma. After all, it can be directly fatal by strangulation during a spasm; or indirectly so because of the terrific strain each attack places on your heart.

In short, the asthmatic who goes without significant care can look forward to misery and a higher risk of permanent damage with each recurring attack.

Let's face it, asthma is a "do it today" problem.

HEALTHFUL FOOD — Italian greens can be turned into healthful food. These greens pictured have many uses from salads to cooking along with flavoring. They are good and high in nutritional value. Greens are full of vitamins and minerals and low in calories.

Chilies En Nogada

Green peppers go festive

Most people enjoy colorful foods because it's said that "one eats first with his eyes," meaning that attractive foods stimulate the appetite.

But sometimes colorful foods have more significance than just color. Take, for example, Chilies En Nogada, or Pepper in Walnut Sauce. The original recipe used the walnuts in a white sauce so the dish represented the colors of the Mexican flag: green, white and red.

This colorful recipe has interesting taste as well as texture with the finely chopped walnuts mixed with meat, rice and typical seasonings, tomato sauce, garlic, cinnamon and cloves. A mild cheese sauce complements the stuffed peppers while the seeds add more color and texture. It offers a good change-of-pace main dish.

Walnut Peppers in Cheese Sauce
4 to 5 servings
(2 peppers each)
Peppers:
8 to 10 small green peppers
1 pound bulk pork sausage

Dietetic not always so

Dietetic ice cream may have as many calories per serving as regular ice cream. Even though it uses an artificial sweetener, its other ingredients, such as fats, raise the calorie level.

1/2 cup each chopped green pepper and onion
1 clove garlic, crushed
1 can (8 oz.) tomato sauce
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon cinnamon
1/4 teaspoon cloves
1 1/2 cups hot cooked rice
3/4 cup finely chopped walnuts

Cheese Sauce:
1/4 cup (1/2 stick) butter
1/4 cup all-purpose flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 cups milk
1 1/2 cups (10 oz.) shredded cheddar cheese

For peppers, cut an opening in one side of each. (Reserve and chop pieces removed for filling.) Remove seeds and membrane. Parboil peppers in boiling salted water 3 minutes; drain well.

For filling, brown sausage, green pepper, onion and garlic. Cook until meat is done; drain off drippings. Stir in tomato sauce, salt, cinnamon and cloves. Simmer 5 minutes. Stir in rice and walnuts. Fill peppers with sausage mixture. Place stuffed peppers in a large shallow baking pan. Bake in preheated 350-degree F. oven 25 to 30 minutes or until heated through. Sources of vitamins, minerals

Greens for good health

Call them "soul food," earthy old favorites, health or "natural" foods; good old greens are coming back to the American table. For example, collard greens, mustard greens, kale and spinach are getting a run at the supermarket and fruit and vegetable stands as a new generation discovers they're good to eat and good nutritionally. It seems this is another "grandma was right" situation.

Greens are excellent sources of vitamins and minerals and low in calories. When cooked properly, most nutrients are retained. And, they're always good in a crunchy, fresh garden salad.

Cooked Greens

To prepare greens for cooking, wash well in cold water, lifting greens out of the water and rinsing several times. Cut off root ends, tough stems and discolored leaves. Greens can be cooked in only the water that clings to the leaves during washing. Place freshly rinsed leaves in saucepan, cover and bring quickly to a boil. Reduce heat and cook gently until tender — 3 to 5 minutes for kale, spinach and dandelion greens, 10 to 15 minutes for turnip greens and collards and 15 to 20 minutes for mustard greens. Older greens may require longer cooking time and additional water. When cooking older leaves place in saucepan with one-half inch water and follow directions given above. One pound raw greens when cooked will yield 3 servings.

Italian Greens

2 pounds greens
1 clove garlic, crushed
1 tablespoon olive oil
1/4 teaspoon sugar
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1/4 cup grated Parmesan cheese
Raw onion rings
Mix garlic, oil, sugar and pepper in shallow pan. Add washed and trimmed greens, cover, bring to boil quickly, reduce heat and cook over low heat until tender. Turn onto serving plate and sprinkle with cheese. Top with raw onion rings. Makes 6 servings.

Braised Kale

1 pound fresh kale
3 slices bacon, cut in 1-inch pieces
1/2 cup chopped fresh onion
1 small bay leaf
1 chicken bouillon cube
1 teaspoon salt

Wash kale and remove coarse stems. Drain but do not dry. Cut into 2-inch pieces. In a medium saucepan cook bacon until lightly browned. Add onion and cook until tender. Add kale, bay leaf, bouillon cube and salt. Cover and cook over medium heat for 15 minutes, or until kale is tender. Makes 4 servings.

Southern-Style Greens

2 pounds greens (kale, collards, mustard greens, turnip greens)
3 tablespoons bacon drippings, butter or salad oil
1 clove garlic, mashed (optional)
2 onions, thinly sliced and separated into rings
1 teaspoon dried leaf basil
1/2 cup beef broth or water
1 teaspoon salt
Pepper to taste

Wash and trim greens, cutting off stems. Drain but do not dry. Tear leaves into 2- to 3-inch pieces. Heat fat in a large skillet. Add garlic, onions and basil. Cook until onions are golden, stirring occasionally. Add greens, broth or water and salt. Cover, bring to a boil; reduce heat and cook 20 to 25 minutes until greens are tender, stirring occasionally. Season with pepper to taste. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

German-styled Wilted Lettuce

6 cups lettuce torn into bite-size pieces
2 large hard-cooked eggs, diced
1/3 cup chopped Bermuda onion
4 slices bacon
1 tablespoon sugar
1/2 teaspoon salt
3 tablespoons cider vinegar

Wash lettuce, drain well, dry and tear into bite-size pieces. Place in a salad bowl. Sprinkle with hard-cooked egg and onion. Set aside. Cook bacon until lightly browned. Remove and drain, then crumble over lettuce. Cool fat slightly, add sugar, salt and vinegar. Heat to boiling and pour over lettuce. Toss lightly. Serve immediately. Makes 6 servings.

Easy recipes for chicken lovers

Chicken continues as a good buy and one career woman admitted to eating so much chicken for that reason that she cackled. However, she says she likes chicken in all its many recipe forms. Fortunately, so does her boyfriend. Here are two easy-to-make chicken recipes when cooking for two. Just add rice or potatoes and a salad for a quick, less expensive lunch or dinner. You will save money by buying a whole chicken, cutting it yourself and freezing unused parts for later meals.

Country-Style Chicken

1 can (about 2 ounces) sliced mushrooms, drained
1 cup diagonally sliced celery
1/2 cup diagonally sliced carrot
4 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 cup chicken broth
2 tablespoons cornstarch
1 tablespoon soy sauce

1/2 cup sliced radishes
Generous dash paprika
1 cup (5 ounces) boned chicken or turkey, cup up cooked rice

In saucepan, brown mushrooms and cook celery and carrot in butter until just tender. Stir in remaining ingredients except chicken and rice. Cook, stirring until thickened. Add chicken; heat. Serve over rice. Makes about 3 cups, 2 servings.

Favorite Chicken

2 chicken legs (about 1 pound)
1 tablespoon shortening
1 can (7 1/2 ounces) semi-condensed cream of mushroom with wine soup

In small skillet, brown chicken in shortening; pour off fat. Stir in soup. Cover; cook over low heat 45 minutes or until done. Stir occasionally. Makes 2 servings.

First World Congress

Committee to monitor world religious liberty

The appointment of a broadly based committee designed to monitor the world religious liberty situation and deal with specific religious liberty concerns was approved by delegates to the recent First World Congress on Religious Liberty.

The resolution, coming on the final day of the congress, grew out of the presentation of problems by several groups in a hearing by the congress. Membership on the committee will include "representation from various religious and non-religious traditions," according to the action.

In addition to approving the committee, delegates approved two other points of action:

— To draw the attention of governments to religious liberty as a fundamental human right flowing from the dignity of the human person, the violation of which is incongruous with international law and contemporary human social relations.

Furthermore, the various governments are urged to support and work for the adoption by the United Nations of the proposed declaration and convention on the elimination of all forms of religious intolerance, which has stagnated for more than 15 years.

— To urge the coming Peace Conference (June 6-10) and other such religious conferences to underline the importance of religious liberty in every nation of the world as an important factor making for peaceful individual, social and international relations.

Presenting their concerns to the special congress committee were representatives from the Church of Scientology, Jehovah's Witnesses and the Keston College Center for the study of Religion and Communism. The Scientologists were concerned with deprogramming of young people who have joined unusual religious groups in the United States particularly.

They felt that liberty should be granted to these young people to choose whatever religion they felt drawn to without interference from their parents. The Jehovah's Witnesses brought complaints particularly against the African government of Malawi where, they declared, thousands of their members had been murdered.

Keston College representatives discussed the problem of religion in Communist lands, and the group Underground Evangelism reported on their activities in providing literature in such areas.

In an address by Executive Director Andrew L. Gunn of Americans United for Separation of Church and State, the World Council of Churches was asked to restore and upgrade its Secretariat of Religious Liberty and the United Nations was urged to enact a draft declaration on religious motives.

A highlight of the congress was the closing awards banquet. The highest award went posthumously to the late Fernando Maria Castiella y Maiz of Spain for his contribution to religious liberty.

In that nation he was instrumental in passing the Toleration Act. Accepting the sculptured bronze award for the late Spanish minister of foreign affairs of Spain was His Excellency Senor Don Rafael Mendizabel Allende, justice vice minister and president of the Spanish Commission for Religious Freedom.

Deeply involved in planning the congress was the Seventh-day Adventist church as represented by its Department of Public Affairs and Religious Liberty.

Study-discussions planned at Brethren in Christ Church

The adult division of the Upland Brethren in Christ Church has arranged for five different interest groups to meet at 9:30 a.m. each Sunday of June, July and August as a part of its total Sunday school program.

Harold Sider, principal of Western Christian High School in Glendora, is adult division director for the church.

In announcing the list of study/discussions available, Sider said it is the second year for such a summer elective program for adults.

"Answers From the Psalms" is one of the Bible studies focusing on selected Psalms in an attempt to understand the relevant insights for today's situations. Thelma Book, a public school teacher, along with Noreen Trautwein will lead this study.

Of special interest will be the film series "How Should We Then Live?" by Dr. Francis Schaeffer. Ten 30-minute films will be shown portraying the rise and fall of Western civilization. The film documentaries, directed by Dr. Schaeffer, probe past civilizations to affirm Biblical lessons for the 20th century and beyond. Discussion leader will be Ron Bergen, formerly with Campus Crusade in France and presently a graduate student at the Rosemead School of Psychology.

The Rev. Robert Hemphry, pastor of the Upland church, will use his skills in Bible interpretation to lead a study in the Book of Philippians. Called "Bound for Joy," this study will focus on attitudes as the crucial ingredient in people's present pursuit of happiness.

Dr. Dan Jeran, coordinator of the graduate department at Azusa Pacific College, will guide a discussion group in "Facing the Issues." This series will examine various concerns that are faced by Christians in a secular society.

"Those Curious New Cults" will consider the implications of the cult explosion with special attention given to contemporary phenomena such as the Unification Church and the Children of God. Harold Sider is the discussion leader.

Sider said more than 380 adults have been invited to enroll.

Pop record review

Live LPs by top groups

By Mike Del Rey
Pop Music Critic

If your favorite performer isn't in town the next best thing would be to check your local record stores for their live LPs. One of them is bound to be one of your favorite performers. In the last couple of weeks alone a handful of live albums have been popping up in all sorts of stores.

On one hand you have Arista's "Berry Manilow Live," recorded live at the Uris Theater in New York last December. Manilow and Ron Dante have produced one of the best and listenable live albums to date. The music contained is all of Manilow's hits including his commercial themes.

On the other hand you have the very controversial recording of the Beatles Live at The Hollywood Bowl. On the back cover producer George Martin apologizes for the album not sounding as good as the concert. But who cares. It's the Beatles. Well the Beatles cared, cared so much they went to court to try to stop the production of "Live At The Hollywood Bowl." But if you see it at your record store you probably know what the outcome was.

Then you have something devine, funkier and a comeback concert.

Let's take something devine first, that being the divine Ms. M (Bette Midler "Live At Last"), regarded for years as a truly classical performer. Bette Midler demonstrates her great wit and the flair for the sexy satire.

Throughout the album her humor mixed with a very powerful voice sends weird things down your spine. "Live At Last" was recorded live at The Cleveland Music Hall in Cleveland, Ohio. It's on Atlantic Records.

Next in line of the live albums is the "P-Funk Tour of Parliament" recorded live at The Oakland Coliseum and the Los Angeles Forum in January. It's the only live album recorded this year and released this year. P-Funking out for Casablanca Records, Parliament offers nothing but heavy funk. Instead of giving you a definition of P-Funk that would probably be wrong, I recommend you listen to Parliament Live.

And finally one of the biggest comeback shows in rock history. "At Last The Bee Gees Live," recorded live at their comeback performance in December at the Forum.

Released by Polydor Records "At Last The Bee Gees Live" is one of the finest live albums I've ever heard. Almost every song is a smash hit. But then, the Bee Gees have had so many.

"Night on Broadway" is one of the best sounding tunes. You can almost sense the light bulbs going around the stage. For those who missed the Bee Gees' concert last year, their live LP is a great substitute.

ZZ TOP AND BISHOP — ZZ TOP, the Texas rockers, will be at the Forum June 11. This time the group will leave their worldwide Texas tour at home and get down to good old rock 'n roll. Accompanying them will be Elvin Bishop featuring Mickey Thomas.

MANDRE — The Masked Marauder will be making his Los Angeles debut when he performs at the Troubador for the next two weeks. A Motown artist Mandre's face has never been seen and isn't expected to be seen while at the Troubador.

Pop album review

Who is Mandre?

By Mike Del Rey
Pop Music Critic

All you Kiss fans get ready for Mandre. Who's Mandre? Who knows?

The only piece of information I have to go on is a Mandre biography Motown Records sent over. It goes something like, "Know ye all that near the center of our galaxy, in the place where the stars cluster closest together, there exists a tear in the very fabric of space and time."

"Some say this immense black hole is the apocalypse come; a monster that swallows suns whole and devours all in its path. They gaze at the sky in fear and tremble at the thought of that the future might bring."

Trying to figure out who Mandre is has been a difficult task. First of all, the only reason I listened to the album to begin with is because I heard that Mandre would be in concert at the Troubador for the next two weeks with ABC's recording artist "Booby People." And as all good rock critics I like to keep up on who's who. But in this case I can't even define Mandre's music. For me the term futuristic comes to mind, but what is futuristic? Well, it's Mandre.

His music sounds like it could be just one instrument, a Moog Synthesizer. But who knows? Do you?

According to his biography, Mandre's face has never been seen. "For you see, the Masked Marauder never removes his helmet of impenetrable Getdownium. Many believe him to be horrendously ugly, others say incredibly beautiful — but all agree the sight of Mandre's face would be far too much for mere mortals to bear."

Even the titles of his songs give no hint as to the identity of the masked (?): "Keep Tryin'," "Solar Flight (Opus 1)," "Interlude," "Third World Calling (opus)," "Masked Music Man," "Money (That's What I Want)," "Wonder What I'd Do," "Dirty Love" ("Dirty Love" is written by Frank Zappa do you suppose? No, it couldn't be), and finally "Masked Marauder."

Stage review

Two plays about people

By Don Ham
Editor

"The Public Eye" and "Home Free," two one-act plays playing at California State Polytechnic University, Pomona say some interesting things about the way people live.

But they do this in different ways. "The Public Eye," by Peter Shaffer, is a comedy that features as its central character an eccentric but effective private detective, Julian Cristoforu, played by Bill Cuddy.

Cristoforu is hired by straightman Charles Sidley, an accountant whose personality is as proper as his name sounds, to spy on his wife Belinda. The Sidleys are played by David A. Koch and Robin Clark. Because of Belinda's frequent trips away from home, Charles suspects she has a boyfriend.

It's not such an unusual plot. But it is an unusual play.

The play opens with Cristoforu entering an empty office. He looks around, and around, and around, then perches on a ladder near the bookshelves, spreads a handkerchief over his lap, takes bits of food from the pockets of his jacket, places them on the napkin, salts the food, and then begins eating. He continues eating throughout the entire play, much to the chagrin of Charles, who quickly decided he'd rather have someone else working on the case.

Charles discovers that his wife, who has been followed everywhere by Cristoforu, has a "handsome, distinguished looking" boyfriend.

Belinda later admits to Charles that she has grown to like a strange man who seems to follow her everywhere she goes. Only, this man is not handsome, is not distinguished looking, and is a little unusual.

Charles doesn't discover her new boyfriend is Cristoforu until the private eye enters the office and is revealed by Belinda.

The story revolves around Cristoforu's complicated and comical attempts to bring the couple together again. And this involves some pretty heavy discussions about marriage, love and caring.

Cuddy does a good job of being the laughable private eye. His facial expressions, the movement of his hands and body all lend credibility to the character.

Robin Clark is an energetic and emotional Belinda, performing comedy and dialogue with excitement, and displaying her emotions effectively in her arguments with Charles.

And Koch, with his greying hair and middle-aged face, succeeds in being stuffy, overbearing, high-strung, belligerent and confused in his role as Charles.

"Home Free"

Where "The Public Eye" is a comedy accented with drama, "Home Free" by Lanford Wilson is a drama tinged with comedy.

It takes a little while to figure out what is really happening in this play, but it takes no time at all to discover the acting talent of costar Wendi Radford, who plays Joanna Brown.

She is a whirlwind of emotion, all kinds of emotion, in her role as companion and lover to her brother Lawrence Brown, played by Terry Vreeland.

She's warm, happy, excited, but frightened as she enters her home — glad to see Lawrence after an "adventure" to the outside world and afraid that the landlady, "Pruneface" Miss Williams, will discover her and tell her she must move out of her home.

She's manic-depressive kind of character throughout the play, affectionally kissing Lawrence one minute, yelling at and disciplining their two invisible children, Edna and Claypene, the next.

Lawrence and Joanna, the only performers in the play, have created a world of fantasy around their lives, made up of their imaginary children, a book Lawrence is "writing," Joanna's adventures into the outside world, a surprise box where they place their gifts for each other, and a toy ferris wheel to which they periodically add another seat.

It's a world they seem to enjoy living within, even though it seems to be cramped and limiting.

But reality invades during the last part of the play. It involves Lawrence's fear of leaving their apartment, and Joanna's pregnancy.

Vreeland plays a Lawrence Brown who is as confused as Joanna, but not quite as up-and-down emotionally. He acts the part well, but fails in communicating emotions with facial expressions. His character is strong and believable.

"The Public Eye" and "Home Free" will play 8 p.m. Friday through Sunday at Magic Mountain in Valencia.

"THE PUBLIC EYE" — Bill Cuddy and David Koch of Upland rehearse for the comedy "The Public Eye," one of two plays to be presented 8 p.m. tonight through Saturday in the studio theater at California State Polytechnic University, Pomona "Home Free" is the second play. For tickets call (714) 598-4546.

'Dark of the Moon' to open

John, the Witch Boy, and the beautiful Barbara Allen will attempt to find happiness again on June 3-4 and June 10-11 at Chaffey College, Alta Loma.

That means that "Dark of the Moon" will be produced on those evenings at 8:30 in the little theater for the second run in more than 13 years. And once again, Ralph Strane will be the director.

"Dark of the Moon" is a study of the lights and shadows of mid-nineteenth century village life in the Great Smoky Mountains. Dramatized here is the clash of good and evil forces that so profoundly stir the mind.

The play paradoxically blends gaiety, music and dance of that time and place with the ancient myth of the ill-fated lovers, the demon and the damsel. The Witch Boy tries to get himself changed to a human being so that he can marry the mortal damsel, but there love is inevitably doomed.

As much as anything, "Dark of the Moon" brings out the fear evoked by superstition in the otherwise rational villagers and the awful effect of public opinion when prompted by terror.

The play was co-authored by Southerners Howard Richardson and William Berney who met as students at the University of Iowa.

It was submitted with the title of "Night Song" to the Dramatists' Alliance where it won the Maxwell Anderson award for best poetic play of 1942.

In the Chaffey College production, Rick Wertz, Upland, and Marie Flores, Montclair, will be John, the Witch Boy, and Barbara Allen.

Why the red tape?

By Richard Leshner
President
United States
Chamber of Commerce

In 1775, a harassed New England merchant complained:

"Men of war, cutters, marines with their bayonets fixed, judges of the admiralty, collectors, comptrollers, searchers, tide waiters, land waiters, with a whole catalogue of pimps, are sent hither not to protect our trade but to distress it."

Such a state of affairs was obviously intolerable, so we threw out King George and his "swarms of officers."

And now? Well ... Pity the poor Navaho Indian who was ordered by the government to install a two-way intercom in his mine ... even though he works it alone.

He's as perplexed as the Portland employer who was told that 15 per cent of his two secretaries and one bookkeeper must be of minority extraction. Fifteen per cent of three people.

Then there's the small businessman who was fined for having too many fire extinguishers. That's right, too many.

In Chicago, they confiscated a batch of rubber squeeze toys ... for squeaking too loudly.

The head of a meatpacking operation recalls being ordered by one federal agency to put an opening in a conveyor line.

Three measures by state Assemblyman Bill McVittie (D-65) have been approved by the Assembly Committee on Judiciary and a fourth has won passage on the floor of the house.

The Judiciary panel passed AB 309, which would prevent an attorney from representing both natural and prospective parents in an independent adoption proceeding unless both sides consent to the joint representation.

"This legislation will make it an unethical practice for an attorney to fail to fully inform a mother of the rights she is irrevocably forsaking when she gives a child up for adoption," McVittie said.

Another McVittie bill, AB 1807, would create a new municipal court judgeship in Victorville, San Bernardino County. The measure would also establish a special fund for traffic fines to support the Automatic Traffic System operated by the county. The lawmaker introduced the bill at the request of the San Bernardino County Board of Supervisors.

The third measure approved by the policy committee was AB 828, which would abolish the $50,000 bond requirement for corporation stockholders to bring a "derivative suit."

"This legislation wipes out a special interest loophole which virtually bars a small stockholder from challenging illegal or improper actions by corporate officials. This is one way we can protect the rights of the many smaller 'owners' of a corporate entity and rebuild confidence in American business," McVittie said.

The full state Assembly approved and sent to the state Senate for further consideration McVittie's AB 378, which assists persons affected by the recent collapse of the Universal Money Order Company.

McVittie introduced the legislation at the request of the state controller. It defers until Sept. 30, 1978 the payment obligations owed the state by those persons who sent in money orders issued by Universal. It also waives interest and penalties on the late payments.

When completed, facilities cited in the bill will maintain the agricultural economy of the San Joaquin Valley during periods of drought, and will provide for the supplemental water needs of both Southern California and the San Francisco Bay area.

Ayala complimented Governor Jerry Brown and his administration for their constructive attitude toward the legislation.

Representative Jim Lloyd (D-35) has introduced legislation to ease the property tax burden for senior citizens.

The bill would allow a tax credit up to $500 for both lower income homeowners and renters over the age of 65, Lloyd said. A rebate program based on property taxes for those on pensions is included in the bill.

Property tax relief is part of a package of Lloyd legislation to assist older Americans. Earlier this year he introduced a bill to remove the ceiling on outside income for Social Security recipients.

"This bill will remove financial penalties for people who want to work past the standard retirement age," Lloyd said.

Closely tied to these bills is a Lloyd - supported proposal to change current age discrimination laws, and being ordered to close it by another federal agency.

"We have been told by various federal agencies," he said, "to provide smooth and rough floors in the same area, salt and not salt the same area, paint and not paint the same area, and so on."

Those are just the petty frustrations. Get into the excesses of the environmental protection movement and you make the big time.

The small snarler - a small fish - has stalled a $116 million dam in Tennessee.

The Furbish lousewort - a useless weed - blocks a $600 million hydroelectric project in Maine.

The soft - shelled clam has halted a $2 billion nuclear power plant in New Hampshire.

And a $3.5 billion coal-fired power plant in Utah was sacrificed on the altar of the black-footed ferret and the kangaroo rat.

Doesn't it boggle your mind - four major energy facilities being held up for petty reasons while the president reminds us of the energy crisis?

So far, no one in the bureaucracy has tried to make his or her horse a consul ... but I expect it soon.

I had a letter the other day from a writer who asked me to explain the contradictions of the government. He said, "I understand there is a move to legalize marijuana while at the same time they are outlawing saccharin."

This bizarre behavior is certainly reminiscent of the eccentricities of history's mad kings and emperors. And yet it occurs - with increasing frequency - right here in the democratic, middle-class U.S.A.

Estimates of the total consumer cost of government red tape vary widely. But the educated guesses usually run between $700 and $2,000 a year, for each and every man, woman and child in the country.

Who - I would like to know - is "protecting" the consumer from this?

In the words of Bert Lance, director of the president's Office of Management and Budget, "We consistently talk about 'wages' and 'prices' being the causes of inflation. (But) the most serious perpetrator of all is government itself."

Four McVittie bills approved

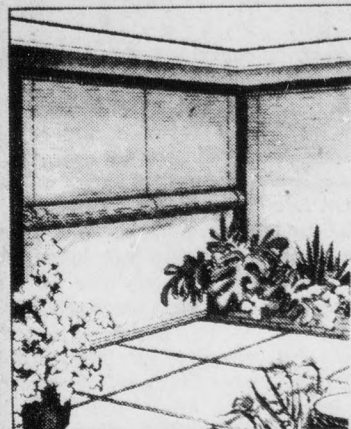

Three measures by state Assemblyman Bill McVittie (D-65) have been approved by the Assembly Committee on Judiciary and a fourth has won passage on the floor of the house.

The Judiciary panel passed AB 309, which would prevent an attorney from representing both natural and prospective parents in an independent adoption proceeding unless both sides consent to the joint representation.

"This legislation will make it an unethical practice for an attorney to fail to fully inform a mother of the rights she is irrevocably forsaking when she gives a child up for adoption," McVittie said.

Another McVittie bill, AB 1807, would create a new municipal court judgeship in Victorville, San Bernardino County. The measure would also

A Woman Ought To Know

Few cues to success

Dear Anita,
If men can make it to the top through the "old boys" system, why don't women executives develop an "old girls" system? Frankly, women who make it in my organization never act positively to help others. How else can we learn?

Dear L.P.,
I doubt women realize how important an influence they could be on younger women as mentors. Men do, as you say, actually set the course of careers of younger men in this way.

John F. Viera recently published a study through University of Michigan Graduate School of Business Administration showing that girls are offered few cues to success.

While men realize they have to plan their careers, develop human relations and other skills, women express a high degree of what he calls "Horatio Alger thinking." They develop a "work hard and someday you'll be rewarded for your effort" strategy.

Yet these are important years of our lives — women are 40 per cent of the labor force and are expected to stay in it longer than they do now.

Women need to plan effectively in their earlier years. Mentors can help them discover job possibilities and the ways to attain good positions. Such planning can help women sort out potential future conflicts and aid in their self-fulfillment.

Families, men and women, are bound to benefit from early planning.
Anita Miller

Dear Anita,
I was very disappointed to receive my real estate sales license for California stamped with "salesman."

My goodness, in an industry so heavily dominated by women, how can this misnomer continue? I would settle for saleswoman, salesperson, sales representative — anything.

S.D., Bakersfield
Dear S.D.,

Your real estate sales license, unfortunately, was printed prior to changes in state codes relating to designations of occupations. New laws, in effect since January, require that after present supplies are exhausted new forms, with non-gender occupational titles, are to be printed.

You are fortunate, incidentally, in having found a potentially lucrative field in which women can contribute experience and wisdom gained as homemakers to help others select the home most suitable to their needs.

It is also a field in which age is no barrier. Women of mature years have demonstrated a high degree of success as realtors.

Hopefully, the success of women in this field will demonstrate to more businessmen that women of all ages can develop business acumen, both in the working world and in the occupation of homemaker. And they can translate their capabilities into success for firms which need their talent.

Anita Miller

Dear Anita,
I'm going through a divorce, and I'm worried that my attorney is not representing me adequately. How does a woman choose an attorney who will fight for her interests during this trying period?

J.A., Alameda

Dear J.A.,
I hear this question often. Divorce is an agonizing experience, at best a time of legal individuation for the woman, aware that she is making life-time decisions in a very short time.

First, try to be more objective by reading such books as "The Feminist Handbook on Separation and Divorce — Women in Transition" or the "ACLU Handbook: The Rights of Women."

Then, take your time choosing an attorney. Each is apt to vary in philosophy. Many women find a divorce specialist the best choice. Be wary of using the same attorney chosen by your husband.

A lawyer's referral service will refer you to a specialist; often you may wish to interview more than one. Fees should be small for an opening interview if you use such a service. Immediately discuss fees and which spouse will pay for yours.

A good attorney will want a thorough check - list of your property, bank accounts, stocks, bonds, insurance policies, earnings, money owed and so on. Your tax return should provide this. Your attorney should determine if there are any concealed assets.

Some issues to discuss are your living expenses, custody arrangements, visiting rights, medical expenses, life insurance, health insurance, college costs. You are not apt to receive alimony, except for a relatively short period. Child support, however, is a matter to explore thoroughly.

If your attorney answers your questions promptly and seeks extensive information from you, you have a good indication of that attorney's commitment to your best interests.

Health Tips

Impetigo: a skin infection

EDITOR'S NOTE:
Health Tips is a column of the California Medical Education and Research Foundation, prepared and edited by physician members of the California Medical Association. It is reprinted by this newspaper as a public service.

Impetigo is a contagious skin infection which is common among children.

The infection is caused by common bacteria, and it often starts following a minor scratch. It seems to be more prevalent during warm weather, particularly among children who are living under crowded conditions. The disease can be severe and dangerous in newborn infants.

Impetigo first appears in the form of a sore, often on the upper lip. A blister forms and when it breaks the secretion dries to form a thick, golden crust. When the crust is removed clear honey-colored fluid oozes from the raw sore. The sores may spread to other parts of the face and to the hands.

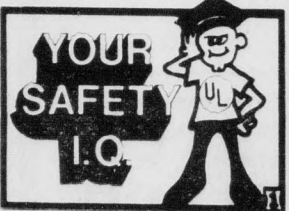

In order to treat the infection and prevent its spread, management by a physician is necessary. Your physician probably will prescribe an antibiotic in injection, pill or liquid form and will instruct you in the proper way to treat the sores.

Do not cover the infection with a bandage which will delay the healing. It usually takes a week or two for the lesions to heal completely.

Though the disease is disfiguring for a short time, it usually does not leave scars if treated promptly. Scratching and neglect can lead to a deeper infection which may scar.

Impetigo spreads from one person to another only through direct contact. Children with active infections should be kept home from school and away from other children in the household. They should not share their towels or washcloths with others in the family. Towels, sheets and clothing should be thoroughly laundered.
